

HCEA Write-Up

As stated in the video my top three priorities are school safety, equity, and building relationships. Funding these priorities requires cost savings opportunities and new revenue. Hiring additional budget analysts to detect inefficiencies in our current budget will yield immediate results. Seeking grant funding for specific programming will help expand restorative justice and equitably-minded programs. I will utilize my construction expertise to optimize our construction and procurement processes to free capital funds to tackle our deferred maintenance. I will leverage my well-established relationships to implement a permanent funding solution by working with government partners to find revenue in transfer tax and developer fee changes.

I know what it takes to win an election. I ran the field and social media for Kirsten Coombs, the top vote getting campaign in 2016. Campaign staff have completed a breakdown of our primary results and identified a definitive difference between polling places based on campaign volunteer presence. We have already begun coordinating General Election Day volunteers. Data will guide targeted literature drops to likely voters. Other staff are organizing with community members to plan events at homes and venues throughout the county; I will maintain a public profile and continue to spread my message.
